

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING AND MINERAL RESOURCES

DEPARTMENT OF MECHANICAL AND AEROSPACE ENGINEERING

Associate Professor/Professor of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering and Director, Center for Alternative Fuels, Engines & Emissions

The Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering at West Virginia University seeks applicants for the position of Director of the Center for Alternative Fuels, Engines and Emissions (CAFEE) [Position Reference #100801] at the rank of Associate or Full Professor. This is a tenure-track position with possible award of tenure contingent to the results of a tenure review. A Ph.D. in Engineering or a closely related field is required. The successful applicant will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, provide internal and external leadership for CAFEE, and develop a strong externally funded research program in fuels, engines, and emissions. Six faculty, 15 engineering research staff and technicians, and 40 graduate students currently support externally funded CAFEE activities.

WVU is a Carnegie Classification High Level Research Institution and a comprehensive land-grant institution with an enrollment of over 28,000 students. The Department, one of seven in the College of Engineering and Mineral Resources, has 27 tenure-track faculty offering BS, MS, and Ph.D. degrees in both Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering to about 450 undergraduate, 80 MS, and 80 Ph.D. students. Additional information may be found on the department website at <http://www.mae.wvu.edu/> or by contacting Dr. Ever Barbero, Chair, (304) 293-3111 ext. 2337.

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2009 and will continue until the position is filled. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Applicants must provide a letter summarizing skills and vision in teaching, research, and leadership, a curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three references. Electronic applications are required and should be sent to -- energy-mae@mail.wvu.edu.
